176 Warren Avenue, Cuicago, Ill., Oct. 22, 1902.
For nearly four years I suffered from evarian troubles. The doctor insisted on an operation as the only way to get well. I, however, strongly objected to an operation. My husband felt disheartened as well as I, for home with a sick woman is a disconsolate place at best. THE SENATOR'S SHARE.

Senator Tillman tells of an old darky in his employ that he once permitted to make use of certain land for farming purposes, on condition that the darky should give to the senator one-fourth of the crop

At the harvesting of the crop the senator was amazed to find that the darky had not kept his part of the agreement, for, while he hanled away three wagon loads of produce, he had not sent a single one to the senator's baru. Tillman called the negro's attention to the fact that he had taken the entire crop, asking: "Now, how's that, Zeb? Wasn't I to receive a fourth of the crop?" "You was, Massa Tillman, you was." excitedly exclaimed the darky; "but dere's only three loads, sah, only three loads!"-New York Times.

THE STABLEMAN'S PLAN.

On one occasion a famous clergyman witnessed the tact of a stableman in coaxing a recalcitrant colt into his stall and soothing him until completely reconciled. Having expressed his congratulations, he remarked with a touch of mel ancholy:

"I wish I could get the workingmen of my parish into church as easily as you get your young horses into their stalls, Thomas.' "Well, sir," said Thomas, "I should
